Information Report for Pupils with Special Education Needs

Heathland's Mission Statement:

Central to our mission statement it is our firm belief that students learn best within a secure, well-disciplined learning environment that provides a broad and balanced curriculum. We challenge our students to become ambitious learners who strive for excellence and the highest levels of achievement across all school life.

The Information Report for Pupils with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) aims to explain the schools provisions for all pupils identified as requiring support for a Special Education Need or having English as an Additional Language. Our objective is to facilitate pupils to increase their life chances. We are aware of our limitations with some special educational needs and therefore have attempted to address a range of questions that should indicate the extent to which we can meet the needs of these pupils.

Learning Support Department:

This policy is based on the recommendations contained in the Code of Practice 2014 and provides the information required by the Education Act, 1996. It provides a staged approach to pupils with special educational needs, based on a 'continuum of needs and a continuum of provision'. Above all, it is designed to ensure that the commitment to excellence which is at the heart of the school's Mission Statement applies in full measure to pupils with special needs and those whose difficulties arise from an insufficiently developed command of English. We aim to empower pupils by building self-efficacy which should inevitably result in higher aspirations and academic achievement.

1	a) How does the school know if children need extra help?	For all new pupils data is collected from the previous school (qualitative and quantitative). Where there is an identified special need, assessment of previous support is completed and intervention planned and put in place to continue to facilitate pupils' needs. EAL Pupils are identified through data collection. Pupils are categorised according to the background information gathered on them. Whilst at The Heathland School we formally screen the pupils on the SEN register yearly, the data is analysed and extra support and intervention is provided where necessary. 	b) What should a parent do if they think their child may have special needs?	Parents need to contact the school (Head of Year or SENCO) to inform concerns. Where the needs might be medical, they would need to access local services (GP/NHS). Assessments will be carried out by the school depending on concerns raised and where necessary external referrals to access more specialised assessment (Educational Psychologists, Behaviour support consultant From Hounslow SENSS - Advisory Teacher for Physical Disability, Advisory Teacher for visually impaired and Advisory Teacher of the deaf) Pupils' special needs can be in any of four categories with some overlapping: Cognitive and Learning Difficulties, Speech and Language Needs, Behaviour, Social Emotional Difficulties and or Physical and Sensory Difficulties. While the teachers follow the regular curriculum and differentiate the work to meet the needs of the pupils referred to this group, there is a great demand on staff to ensure that pupils make expected progress. The Heathland School has very high expectations of pupils and by choosing The Heathland School you have agreed to support with the rules and regulations and most important, to help your child to perform well academically and where possible raise the bar. There is strong emphasis on academic success and pupils at The Heathland School are required to meet homework and coursework deadlines irrespective of their special educational needs. There are a range of clubs (lunch time, homework clubs and other extra-curricular activities); however, pupil success is correlated to a sense of discipline and independent work at home to reinforce skills taught at school.

b) Who will oversee, plan work with children and parents?	EAL Pupils: Pupils are offered in class support, withdrawal sessions where they are taught in small groups (curriculum material covered but differentiated according to their needs). Selected pupils who start in Year 10 or 11 are prepared for IGCSE English exam. IGCSE English as a Second Language is accepted by universities and employers as proof of ability to understand and communicate in English. It is aimed at students whose first language is not English, but who use it as a lingua franca or language of study. Teachers have the responsibility of planning for pupils in mainstream classes. All department Heads, teachers, Head of Years and SENCO will facilitate pupils in setting specific targets to facilitate growth and development. These are monitored and reviewed termly. There are also discussions on how to help facilitate (workshops-providing parents with resources and information about useful contacts) as well as the opportunity for parents to contact the school and seek information. Parents are informed of progress and encouraged to facilitate their children through the monitoring and assistance with homework (pupil diaries provide useful websites and additional texts/revision to help facilitate learning). There is a year group Intervention Evening where the parents of pupils who are underachieving are invited in and provided with a range of strategies to support their children. 7	What training will the staff supporting children and young people with SEND/EAL have had or receive?	All SEN teachers have relevant qualifications in special needs – Our SENCO has recently gained The National Award for SEN Coordination (NASCO) and Accessing and Interpreting Tests for Access Arrangements (Level 7). Most TAs have had training or gained qualifications at the BA or BSc level, others have HLTA qualification and/ or NVQ. A number of TAs have achieved L2 and L3 accreditation in teaching Catch Up Literacy. Teaching Assistants all have TA packs with resources to facilitate learning. These resources include Reading Comprehension Prompts; Editing your Work through punctuation, vocabulary, openers, connectives; improving your writing skills; questioning techniques-blooms taxonomy; study skills and	Assistant Head: Inclusion, SENCO & Deputy SENCO

	, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	school is aware of its limitations in meeting the needs of all pupils. While	, there is a Learning Support Department that aims to facilitate the needs of pupils with mild and moderate learning difficulties, there isn't the facility to meet the needs of those with severe difficulties. The school is very inclusive but is a mainstream school that is better equipped to meet the needs of pupils who can cope with the pressure of doing a number of academic courses that are not only demanding in terms of quantity and quality of work done in the classroom but also in relation to the before, during and after school requirements (homework, coursework, self-discipline and independent work outside of school hours).
		The Heathland School has two prospective parents' evenings where parents and their children have an opportunity to come in and get a flavour of what the school has on offer. Each department showcases the curriculum offered and the quality of work required and produced through the facilitation of staff. These evenings also include formal presentations from the Headmaster. Moreover, there are informal talks where parents and pupils can ask questions and have information shared to help them make informed decisions about the school.

The school has forged strong links with Primary SENCOs and there is much liaison between the two in preparation for pupils with SEND joining the school in Year 7.

The Learning Support Department also showcases the provisions offered by the department which is also very inclusive even though there are limitations as was mentioned before. The department has a Year 7 Transition Group where pupils with identified difficulties (cognitive, speech and language, social and emotional) have an opportunity to integrate into the school through small group teaching of some curriculum subjects. This tailored provision is intended to raise the achievement levels of pupils who gain access to the group. The expectation is that throughout the year pupils will gain the necessary skills to ensure they perform on par with their peers in mainstream.

Pupils are expected to attain nationally expected levels so that they can cope with the curriculum. In the Transition Group a more tailored approach is used (according to the pupil's needs). However, they are still assessed at the end of the year with the same tests given in mainstream.

b) Transfer to a new school or the next stage of education or life? As discussed above, The Heathland School aims to raise the educational attainment of pupils to ensure they can cope in a competitive world. Pupils receive a holistic and inclusive education that prepares them for university and the world of work. There is a strong ethos of driving all pupils towards higher and further education because education is seen as having an imperative role in pupils' life chances. Staff at all levels emphasise the importance of valuing education. There are specialist staff who provide career advice to pupils. There are also planned visits to colleges and universities to provide pupils with a flavour of the opportunities available to them. Pupils get support in completing application forms to advance to the next level successfully.

Year 9 World of Work Day is an annual event that provides an opportunity for pupils to explore their career options. In each department there are departmental displays showing different career pathways with subject selection. Sixth Form Open Evening serves as a means of preparing Year 11 pupils for their post 16 choices. Higher Education Day further facilitates choices as this is a Career Expo where universities across the country display their programmes of study on offer and career pathways. It facilitates our 6th Form pupils with their decision making and aids the transition into further education. Our Careers Advisor provides additional information and support for pupils. The Learning Support Department liaise with colleges and universities to facilitate a smooth transition for some SEND pupils. Monitoring of applications continues through telephone and email.

11	How are the school's resources allocated and matched to children's special educational needs?	Data analysis plays a key role to the allocation of resources. Pupil Premium funding is used for a number of intervention programmes at all Key Stages. In Year 7-9 pupils who are below expected levels (particularly level 3) in Maths and English are placed in Maths and English Intervention Groups taught by specialist Maths and English Teachers. To complement this support pupils also have the additional morning, lunch time and after school homework and revision clubs that they can access to improve their educational attainment. There is a Supported Study Group (time tabled sessions) that offer pupils additional support to secure their grades in core subjects. Pupils with more specific learning difficulties might receive additional support from external agencies. Selected pupils receive SALT, EP Assessments, OT, Learning Assessments, Behaviour Intervention, Visual and Hearing Impairment support. Information from the external agency sessions is shared and fed into the practice of all teachers. Special equipment and other useful resources are purchased and used to increase pupil progress. 12	How is the decision made about the type and how much support a child will receive?	Decisions about the type and level of support offered are made in accordance with need. Pupils who are identified as having special educational needs (Wave II and III) have a Pupil Passport informing of strengths, difficulties, targets and strategies.	SENCO
